A game jam is a 48 hour event where software developers and game developers, enthusiasts, professionals or people interested in learning more come together to work in small teams and create a video game based off of a TBA theme.

The event starts with a keynote speech from the Global Game Jam representatives, and then everyone splits into teams to start make their games until Sunday evening, which is the cut off time limit.

Oak Hill Collaborative will be the hosting location at 507 Oak Hill Ave, Youngstown, OH. Computers can be provided for those who do not have computers to bring for the event. The option to spend the night is available and attendees are requested to bring their own blankets and pillows or anything they will need for an overnight.

Snacks and pizza will be provided, and it will cost $10 to attend. The charge covers the snacks and pizza.
